When I get up in the morning
When I open up my eyes
When I get down in the evening
When I laugh and when I cry

When you're sitting right beside me
When you're far, far away
I'll be thinking about you baby
About a hundred times a day

Now I'll be walking down the sidewalk
And I'll be talking to the wind
Trying to have a conversation,
I lost my train of thought again

Yeah when I'm out on vacation
And I'm a million miles away
But I was thinking about you baby
About a hundred times a day

About a hundred times a day
If it's sunny, if it's grey
I'll be thinking about you baby
About a hundred times a day

About a hundred times a day
If it's sunny, if it's grey
I'll be thinking about you baby
About a hundred times a day

When I hear the birds a singin'
When I see the setting sun
When my telephone is ringing
I always break into a run

When you're sitting right beside me
Or when you're far, far away
I'll be thinking about you baby
About a zillion times a day

About a hundred times a day
If it's sunny, if it's grey

I'll be thinking about you baby
About a hundred times a day

About a hundred times a day
If it's sunny, if it's grey
I'll be thinking about you baby
About a hundred times a day
