"Too Young To Die"

The wind in my face drives me back as I'm nearing The edge

A vision of my life's corruption runs through my Head

So many souls have I broken to get where I am

A lonely place in the sun where I can pretend

Too many temptations have lured me

So many illusions betrayed me

And a road of despair lies before me

But I'm too young to die

TOO YOUNG TO DIE

I've made mistakes in my life that I can't defend

I've run out of excuses, I'm nearing my end

Looking down from the top, it's easy to fall
