"All In Vanity"

When being cautious with the process We devote what we can while we try to withstand the simple at hand We leave our selves open Through voluntarily going to the depths of the deepest and the darkest of oceans Just to say we left our mark in the conquest Its fucked But Iâ€™ve long since left the camp And I often wish ill again It seems that life has got me by the heels again just to drop me on my ass Impeaching all dependency In a quiet place between substance and loss I through away our love in a coin toss And all of this time it seems we were just falling apart, While I grew into a part of you So many things that I wanted to see, That I strived to be, in time you couldnâ€™t spend with me I walked around like I was running it all
