josephine, the roses in this room suddenly would open into bloom all a bit too late and still a bit too soon a little love won t do no harm yes, i know there s strange news from afar who you were and who i hope you are lose that uniform now let me see you scars

a little love won t do no harm

oh my friend now if the truth me told you and i have little left to hold lets pretend that we ve begun a little love don t hurt no one suddenly now everything is calm here marooned anew our trinkets and our charms we just spilled some wine and raised up the alarm

a little love wont do no harm
