She was only a face in the crowd
But our needs and desires spoke so loud
And before I could say I would try to be true
I'd already cheated on you

Oh the mysteries of love born at night
As we lay there it all seemed so right
Now it's too late to say I'll be true
Cause I've already cheated on you

I've already broken the vow that I made

The damage is already done
And though I know you've never been unfaithful to me darling
So the score now is zero to one
I feel guilty enough anyway
There's not really much more to say
I could say that I'm sorry
But what good would it do
Cause I'd already cheated on you

She was only a face in the crowd
But our needs and desires spoke so loud
And before I could say I'll try to be true
I'd already cheated on you
