You better replace the carpet
Across this apartment
You'll never get the stains out
From the dirty talk and wrong paths I've walked
And the bullshit that falls
Exponentially from my mouth

And I am sorry for all
The red streaks on the wall
You have to clean up every time you see me
You say it looks like blood
But where did it all come from
Just take a looksie at the heart on my hoodie

The problem is I talk too much
And never say enough
And anything with eyes and thighs
Can make me fall in love
And I point the blame at every name
But mine 'cause I don't see
The problem is the problem is me

You always took a seat
Quicker than a seasoned thief
Because every time I speak you look dizzy
So be very precautious
So you don't get too nauseas
When I talk in circles and try to take you with me

The problem is I talk too much
And never say enough
And anything with eyes and thighs
Can make me fall in love
And I point the blame at every name
But mine 'cause I don't see
The problem is the problem is me

I still go to the bar
Not to drink, just to count my scars
And get some thinking done
But after about 7 sodas
I look around and notice

I'm more fucked up than anyone

The problem is I talk too much
And never say enough
And anything with eyes and thighs
Can make me fall in love
And I point the blame at every name
But mine 'cause I don't see
The problem is the problem is me

The problem is the problem is me
