Koreatown 1983

Summer morning sitting on the sidewalk with his friend

Concrete cool under his legs

Rolling clove cigarettes out of butts he'd been saving

Driving out to the desert with Jennifer Finch

Taking loads and marveling at the silence

Next day on the 10

He never felt so depressed

Inland Empire freeways covered in black skid marks

The scars of countless accidents

Is he going home again?

He's never going home again

No no no no

No no no no
