Half of the time, they don't know who we are.
Because they hold on to the things of which they've worked so hard.
Still refusing to live by what they call fantasy.
But I'll tell them without you, there would be no harmony.
When I see the morning stars shine like your name...
Who's to blame?
The only thing I wish then, is to feel you
You're the brightest star that loves us everyday
I will lay me down within the Present Part of You
If ever I fear, you'll always be my comfort.
You're light will dry my tears. You're love fulfills my days.
Nothing can destroy the strength that lives inside me.
So I'll give back to the One who showed me the face of glory.
When I see the morning stars shine like your name...
Who's to blame?
The only thing I wish then, is to feel you
You're the brightest star that loves us everyday
I will lay me down within the Present Part of You
