I had a dream of you kissing me
'Cos that's what I've wanted for so long
And we danced real slow to Norah Jones
And then we decided that would be our song

It was not the kind of dream that you expect you will awake from Your skin was skin your, your lips were lips, our love was love
And I pinched myself a thousand times to make sure it was real
But I suppose a thousand times was not enough

But then I woke up and I was alone
Alone and away, no hand to hold
Now I lie awake alone in the dark
With your empty words killing my heart

Didn't you say that you couldn't live without me

Couldn't you see that you were for me
And I was your Romeo
And I won't forget my Juliette
The poison I took killed me nice and slow

So I guess that you pretend that what you got is what you wanted
Something safe and something sure
I still dream of you at night
But lately all those dreams are haunted by the fear that you're still wanting more

And then I woke up and I was alone
Alone and away, no hand to hold
Now I lay awake alone in the dark
Your empty words killing my heart

Didn't you say that you couldn't live without me
Didn't you say that you couldn't live without me
