When you're out
Breathing in the daze
Promising to pray

You're not good enough to be
All the big, bad words you say

She knows
She floats

If I could shake all these feelings
I just stare at the ceiling
A ghost in the window

I'd rather spend my last days blue
As long as I'm with you

Tonight
There's something in your eyes
There's something about the sky

Tonight we escape

When you're numb
Standing in the rain
The feelings just not that sane
It's just pessimistic

So close your door to tidal waves
And write it down before the world goes bang

She knows
She floats

I'm begging, I'm kneeling
I'll float through the ceiling
And walk beside your ghost

I'd rather spend my last days blue
As long as i'm with you

Tonight

There's something in your eyes
There's something about the sky

Tonight
We escape

There's something about your eyes
There's something about this night

There's something about your eyes
There's something about this night

There's just something about your eyes
