[We were so close together, but the twilight has a different color now.

The abundance of kindness only keeps a distance between us.

Our coldly ignored hearts are wandering in the midst.
If this awkwardness is what it's like to live,
We shall close our eyes under the cold sky.]

[Even though we were so close together,
We can't even get a word across between our increasing distances.

Even though we were so close together, the twilight has a different color now.

Please, give us a quiet sleep under the moon light, if it is the last thing possible.]

[If you are going to cope with fate,

You can't go on saying you are sad or lonely.

Even if it means to break the links of words we have made together,

You would still want to say goodbye to the dull nights.]

The unmatched couple have no place they can reach.

Even though we were so close together, in a glimpse of your new face,

I am fascinated, almost as though it is strange, almost enough that I would feel uneasiness.]

that our eyes do not become lost.]
