you like to think some things last forever and you like to think some days will never end you like to be stains on my fingers you'd like to know - someone's alter ego you like to be the bruises on my body you'd like to be poison that melts in my mouth the world revolves around you it won't taking place in every object addicted to you

taking place in every aspect
as we collide
taking place in every object
addicted to you
as we emerge as one

you like to believe this love will last forever and you like to think we're siamese twins 'till the day we die

you'd like to know - someone's alter ego
you like to be the bruises on my body
you'd like to be poison that melts in my mouth

addicted to you
addicted to you
