And for you, for you I'd weep
For you I'd fall down to my knees
For you I'd die, I'd die a thousand times
For you I'd take out my two brown eyes

Because darkness is only temporary
The crimson clouds that echo will last eternally

I set sail onto waters of glass
I found love in the cold romance
Now I, I don't need a thing
You bring me back and I don't need a thing

I fall to pieces when you breathe, you breathe
And your eyes can calm chaotic seas through peace

We found each other in this life
We will find each other in death
We will find our souls in the next life
I promise, my goddess

I set sail onto waters of glass
I found love in the cold romance
Now I, I don't need a thing
You bring me back and I don't need a thing

Love, love, love set me free
Love, love, love set me free

It doesn't matter if you fall down
Get the fuck back up
There is a life that's worth living if you care to look inside
Look inside

I set sail onto waters of glass
I found love in the cold romance
Now I, I don't need a thing
You bring me back
Now I have everything
