Think like you haven't ever
Try to remember the days
When we would talk till the light
Before morning
Your summer neck is burned
With salt and sand
I lost my fingers
Trying to find your old hands
In time maybe we'll discover
We could've been closer to the core
Think like you haven't ever
Try to remember we're dead
Now i'm watching you
From far away instead
Think like you haven't ever
Try to remember we're alive
I haven't slept for three nights
And i seeing things now
Aren't you gonna break my fall?
