We said hello on a windy beach
You were wide-eyed and just nineteen
How are you? and I'm pleased to meet
You on this charming summer's eve
I fell deeply for you fast
With all intentions of a love to last

But don't you know I hate singing the blues
And I never told you but tonight I'll tell the truth
Every little thing that you do makes me want to sing
Every little that you do has got me singing the blues

It's a fact, but whose to know?
You make me hate the sand between my toes
You run along and I followed
To someone else your heart belongs
And I fell deeply for you fast
With all intentions of a love to last

But don't you know I hate singing the blues
And I never told you but tonight I'll tell the truth
Every little thing that you do makes me want to sing
Every little that you do has got me singing the blues

But I fell deeply for you fast
With all intentions of a love to last
I've seen you come and I've seen you go
I can see us running along the coast

And don't you know I hate singing the blues
I never told you but tonight I'll tell the truth
Every little thing that you do makes me want to sing
Every little that you do has got me singing the blues
