(Move a little farther along)

You've been followin' me with your painted blue eyes

Since I walked in this bar and sat down

Just because my sweet baby is not by my side

Don't mean that I'm slipping around

So move a little farther along find somebody who is too weak to be strong

Check faces down the line stop looking at mine move a little farther along

Just because I've been by here a few times and stopped

Don't mean my heart's breaking in two

Even though I played sad songs on that old jukebox

There's no reason to think I need you

So move a little farther along...

Move a little farther along
