we would sleep to the glow of the exit sign dream that the world was yours and mine better run if you want shotgun the day was dark but it was all good and fun we were heroes to those who knew us better times change are evident
i read your letter the path we chose went different ways but i can't let you get lost that maze 'cause i don't see that you're next to me after all we've been through i still wish you would come around

around again

it's not too late for you my friend to start to live again so please don't throw it all away and come around again

yell from the rooftop you didn't care and throw your fist up in the air life always hits like a bomb but why did it hit to you so hard 'cause i don't see that you're next to me after all we've been through i still wish you would come around
around again
