Welcome to the Velcro Parade
Everybody now march out the shade
I know that it's a lonely place to be
But everybody sings the song
Sometimes I know I could be wrong

You're between the silver sand and moon above
How I wish you were here with me to inject into
The only thing I know is how much I miss ya
Not some kind of solar panel love and
My vein your love and mystery

Before It's cold outside and I know that I need ya
I've got the motion to fly even though I might fall out

The sky and crash into the things I'm afraid and I fall
Through this cellophane floor seems like I've here
You're between the silver sand and moon above
Not some kind of solar panel love and
How I wish you were here with me to inject into
My vein your love and mystery
