We met eyes across a crowded room
And made love through the afternoon
In our minds, we can't deny that These chemical explosions sing a song that our emotions
Could only hide, deep inside
Because when I stop and look at you eternity seeps right on through into My eyes

But it's hard to take it slow when you're falling so fast

You don't even know my name
But I swear you feel the same way
And no we can't deny what's going on inside
We can't hope to fight against this chemical reaction

I'm having trouble saying what I feel
But let me say I hope that this is real
Tonight, in spite
Of these chemical reactions I don't want to be distractions from knowing you
But if it's wrong to feel so strong well I don't want to feel right

You don't even know my name
But I swear you feel the same way
And no we can't deny what's going on inside
We can't hope to fight against this chemical reaction

So you've got to let me know how you want this to go

You don't even know my name
But I swear you feel the same way
And no we can't deny what's going on inside
We can't hope to fight against this chemical reaction

It's just a chemical reaction
