The conversation is growing old
And like the coffee we were sharing its long since grown cold
You let me know I can't do this on my own Even if I try real hard and play the part I can never earn your heart for me

Just like the moon, all I want
All I want

The conversation takes a turn
And my heart begins to burn
When I learn that you will love me just the way I am
As a broken man, an unworthy fool with nothing of his own to give you

Just like the moon, all I want
Just like the moon all I want
Is to reflect the sun
I don't have my own light to give
My own life to live
All I want is to reflect the sun

There is just one thing
And really it is everything you want us to do
Don't let us get so confused
It's all about love, love, love
