You cannot live without the shadow of death
You beg and scream for someone else's help
You cannot lengthen your life, you know that this is true
If something happens, sorrow is saved until tomorrow

We will all die anyway
So live your life just like one of us

The rich collect their wealth while the poor are scraping by
You will just get wasted, and they will take your money
You just cannot get enough of your fucking life
Try to save it all you like, but you will lose this game

We will all die anyway
So live your life just like one of us
