Bow to me faithfully Build the church And I will give you hope I'll lead you through the path of my existence I'll lead you as a creator of hope Let's join into couples, let's create power Let's generate a new being Let's create half-god, half-man The legend of the great Let the day come The day when all dominant and powerful will reign again and rule where the first set their steps The time of the contemporary has come to an end, efface yourself This species is rotting from the inside, I give you the choice Don't be stupid! They will grant you existence but efface yourself
