

David Mead

"No One Left to Blame"

Visit "No One Left to Blame" on MotoLyrics.com

Looking out the window, it's midday
Like the one I finally made you go away
Thirty days, give or take
Well, I was sure you would break

I finally took that picture off the wall
Into every crack a little rain will fall
Give it time, so they say
But where do I place the blame for it all

'Cos it's true, you release yourself
It's all on someone else, yeah it's true
And it's all the same when
You got no one left to blame

I believed you every time you said that
This world could only turn inside your head
As if you never cried
As if we never died this death

'Cos it's true, you release yourself
It's all on someone else, yeah it's true
And it's all the same when
You got no one left to blame

'Cos if I'd ever thought about it
I know I'd find a way to doubt it for you
I know that I'm responsible for
The little lies I let you tell for two

Visit David Mead page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.