sleeping, sleeping
now that it's late after the party and the people we follow our fate to the skyline up on the roof, part of the heaven we ascend to show me the proof you've been pondering eyes are wandering
while the world is sleeping with its shades pulled down and dreaming high above those shadows stars speak what we know lend me your ear, i'll be your poet and your best friend recite all the years far below us and here in the sky, time is a temptress and a teacher a laugh or a sigh what's the difference, lies or innocence
high above those shadows stars speak what we know, sleeping- ooh yeah while the world is sleeping
with its shades pulled down and dreaming
while the world is
with its shades pulled down and dreaming
stars speak what we know, sleeping sleeping
