Daylight and all I see is you
The sun shines and all I see is you
Always knew it could be like this
We'd start the day with a coffee kiss
You tried to hide but I could see right through
It took a while, but I finally got away with you

And come tomorrow we can slide away
Lettin' go of all our yesterdays
In the ocean we'll be born anew
We'll see the world from a different point of view
Always told you it could be like that
We stood together we'd never look back
After everything that I've been through
The tides are turning and I finally got away with you
I finally got away with you

Two thousand miles from the city lights
You know we may just get to sleep at night
And every morning we will start as new
Look at the world from a different point of view
Always told you it could be like that
We stood together we'd never look back
After everything that I've been through
The tides are turning and I finally got away with you
I always told you it could be like this
We'd start the day with a coffee kiss
You tried to hide but I could see right through
It took a while, but I finally got away with you
I finally got away with you
I finally got away with you
