Fallin faster than a stone,
Lookin' at the sky below
I wonder just which side I'm on
The difference between you and me
Is you are real and I'm not what I seem to be

You know everyone's misunderstood,
But you take the bad you make it good

The summer sun is on the run,
Sometimes it looks like somethin' has begun
The temperature is droppin' down,
The leaves are scattered covering the ground now

And you know in the endless quest for bliss,
Everything has come to this
And we're all misunderstood,
But you take the bad you make it good

All is as, all is as it should be
All is, all is as, all is as it should be

Baby steps might take some time,
But fools rush in not knowing they've been blinded
So come on in and look around.
Don't you know that I won't let you down.

Don't you know everything has come to this
In the endless quest for bliss
And we're all misunderstood,
But you take the bad you make it good

All is as, all is as it should be
All is, all is as, all is as it should be
All is, all is as, all is as it should be
