What have i done to get me here?
Unraveled and undone, i need my father
What have i done? i've followed my feet to nowhere
Now i'm here! as i ran, i can run no more
Prodigal me
The mountains to the west, i know they laugh at me
They know i'm scared to cross and leave this life i lead
Oh my pride! i give you up a barter for my freedom
What will they think as i come stumbling down to join their lives?
I need to cross this mountain and find my way home
I seek no greater fortune, rescue me
Oh unmerciful divide be merciful tonight
Show me the other side
Prodigal me
The mountains to the east, they've swallowed my beloved
This house completely incomplete, where is my mortar?
Where did he go? he followed his feet to nowhere
Please come home! youve done me no wrong
Each evening i look down that road
I hope and i wait for you
And my servants they look down that road
We watch and we pray for you Master, master, who's that man stumbling down that road?
Could it be the one? could it be? could it be?
Master, master, it's Your son
Coming home to join our lives!
I'm looking down this mountain, i see my way home
There is no greater fortune, i believe!
Oh unmerciful divide you laugh at me no more
Oh i've reached the other side!
Prodigal me
Could i be the one? could i be? could i be?
Father, Father, we're Your sons
Coming home to join Your life
We've finally crossed this mountain, and found our way home
There is no greater fortune than Jesus
Oh how merciful is our God who gave His only Son!

Oh we worship You tonight!
