Last night, I went out with some old friends
I couldn't help but think of you again
Someone was wearing your perfume
What a cruel way to remind me that we're through
A couple danced over by the jukebox
Hand in hand, I thought they'd never stop
They played our song again and again
How could anyone be so insensitive

Hey, they're laughing at me, I just know it
As if they knew all along I'd blow it
Everywhere I turn
Something reminds me of the way things were
I love you, I lost you
And I know what a fool I've been
And it seems like the whole world
Keeps rubbin' it in

Every time I turn on the TV
I come across one of our favorite movies
A love story that ends with a kiss
How'd the cable company get in on this
I swear I pass you when I'm on the highway
Since when did everyone drive red Chevrolet's
It never really is your car
I think some people have taken this a little too far

Hey, they're laughing at me, I just know it
As if they knew all along I'd blow it
Everywhere I turn
Something reminds me of the way things were
I love you, I lost you
And I know what a fool I've been
And it seems like the whole world
Keeps rubbin' it in

Hey, they're laughing at me, I just know it
As if they knew all along I'd blow it
Everywhere I turn
Something reminds me of the way things were
I love you, I lost you
And I know what a fool I've been

And it seems like the whole world
Keeps rubbin' it in
Yeah, it seems like the whole world
Keeps rubbin' it
