The melody you gave me
Still lingers in my head
And the words you wrote on loose leaf
Are tattooed in my head.

And it hurts me so bad to sing a song so true
When all of the words
Lead me right back to you.

Do you, feel my tears through your radio, your radio
Do you, hear me scream your name
Through your radio, your radio.

This road seems never-ending
Every microphone's the same
But it helps when the crowd sings along with my pain.

So if you ever feel lonely,
From the one that you lost
Let this song be a message
To let them know how much this hurts.
