Walk past the coffee shops in Brooklyn,
Look up towards the fire escape,
Steam settles down on a couple making out,
Wish I could relive those days.

Put your head on my heart,
Can you feel it beating?
Why can't I? I have been so lonely,
This city's full of life, so I'm still wandering.

Head back to my room at the hotel,
Look out the window to see what I can see,
Everyone says this city is a wasteland,
She is naked on the bed and waiting for me.

I just want to have some feeling
Can you hear me breathe?
