I'm too far down this time
I've crossed that line too many times
So leave me behind
And I'll let my failure speak for itself
I'm weak and always tired
(Like) it's time to retire
But I've seen the way you come and go
You're like a ghost
Only when everyone's away do you come close
But I saw you leave a shadow there
And I couldn't help but stare
And wonder, "Is there something in the air?"
And I felt that salty breeze
When you said to me, "show me the world
I'll see the world"
And I'm starting to feel like you
So I'll say it too, "show me the world
I'll see the world"
And I saw you fall into the sand beneath the trees
I saw you sitting up and staring at your knees
I saw the waves arrive in pairs, threw the sand into you hair
And wondered, "Is there something in the air?"
And I saw you leave a shadow there
And I couldn't help but stare
And wonder, "Is there something in the air?"
