The horses they think to you,
They take you on a ride, just like people do.
They never ask you who you are or what's your name.

Cho: I figured out they can be so sweet,
All they really need is just a little to eat.

Soul food is good for horses too, what about you?
I've seen the boys learn what's goin' on,
Another quarter mile and they're hanging on.
Learning about cowboy life,
And it's alright and it's alright.
They haven't tried riding much before,
Its fun to see an open door.
I see their minds work as they record another way of life,
Of a different kind, of a different kind.
Another memory is quickly stored,
A happy day when you're young and never bored.
I'm learning about children now,
As they learn about me, and we make history.

CHO: I figured out they can be so sweet,
All they really need is just a little to eat,
Soul food is good for children, what about you?
Soul food is good for adults too, what about you?
