Do you remember when you said this would be ok?
When i bought your words and the lies that you fed me.
If you would just shut up,
Then maybe you would see that you don't know it all as you'd like to believe.

As you go, let me say this as you're walking out the door.
Everything i've always felt, but never had the nerve to say before.
Like how i hate you and i hope you choke on this.
I hope that you choke on this.

And i still can't believe that you could be so wrong.
Without so long, you just left me dead.
There's just one more thing, in case you haven't heard.
I'm still here and you're still choking on your words.
