Listen up. The leaves outside are lapping up the rain
tonight,
And I was hoping that the racket that they make distracts you.
Cause you're far too focused and consumed.
Just think of the babies outside. The rain is all they want.
When they reach out to you, sometimes isn't that all you need?
Aren't we all as simple as seeds?
If not, then we'll be just for one day.
Let's keep it simple.
Why would we want to tangle this bow we've tied so beautifully?
It's all we control.
Take solace in knowing that sometimes plans
Don't work out and it's out of our hands.
I know this world is relentless, and I can only make tea for two.
But I only wish I could convince you to be convinced
