If I could give you one more chance to come back would you do it all the same?

The season's over and your mind still remains

Thoughts entertain your certainty

To tell the truth i never Truly realized just how much you meant to me and i can't comprehend the pain in your eyes that which i could not relieve your life's a pill and you're choking on it

'cause you don't have the sense to breathe and you're so hard to shake after all we've been through

Tap me when you wake

'cause I see right through you

Do you remember drawing pictures in my room?

and taking journeys on our bikes?

You'd come over and we'd stay up all night and tell each other we're alright

If I gave you one last piece of my mind would you take it all the same?

Don't pretend we're ok because i never knew you you're drowning while you stay and after all we've been through you're gone
