"Lies Between"

Take a deeper look into the realm we live inside
Are you afraid of what I'll find?
A gradual descent without that helping hand.
An overwhelming panic scene like nothing you ever dreamed
But could you walk away just to walk away?

It means nothing to me to give up everything and fall
between,
The cracks of emptiness and make believe.
It means nothing to me I gave up everything that lies
between,
The cracks of emptiness and make believe.

Save the breath you took, it's a long way down from here,
And when the feeling disappears,
There's nothing left to hold except our deepest fears.
Stuck inside decaying walls. praying for a miracle
Would you walk away just to walk away?

It means nothing to me to give up everything and fall
between,
The cracks of emptiness and make believe.
It means nothing to me I gave up everything that lies
between,
The cracks of emptiness and make believe.

The false illusions seemed like angels in disguise, Evaporating at the point of neglecting our own self accusing.

It means nothing to me to give up everything and fall
between,
The cracks of emptiness and make believe.
It means nothing to me I gave up everything that lies
between,
The cracks of emptiness and make believe.

It means nothing to me to give up everything and fall
between,

The cracks of emptiness and make believe.
It means nothing to me I gave up everything that lies
between,
The cracks of emptiness and make believe.
