Bright hopes come true as we walk downtown smiling and laughing

As friendship and exhaustion meet we celebrate
a two year wait

A distant dream is born

We eat and drink ourselves full and then we pay up with all we have for the day

We sit down excited listen to ourselves play music no one seems to listen

This is completely different

We lived in another world where we were never invisible

A few days later we speak again but it didn't sound good

We were all in agreement in agreement about most things we'll do better next time

This is an alright start
