(By Simone Borghi and Marco Ricciotti)

She wiped away her tears watching my eyes
The rain was falling down over us like wine
I did all this by myself
With my faith it's dying and I don't know why
She sprang to her feet screaming to me
Running to me, falling to me, falling... and I say

Every time you'll think about me please don't cry
Every single day your love will be high
And I will be in your memories forever
By the moon

And now the sea washed away the footprints
The air is clean over me I can feel it
And now what are you doing?
Where are you going?
I can't stop to think of you
Trying to turn away my life

Every time you'll think about me please don't cry
Every single day your love will be high
And I will be in your memories forever
By the moon
