Iâ've got two new eyes to see the world
There is a silence over every town
The sky is like a shadow
People are looking for light
The night is over them
Thousands of children are crying

How many days before we learn to love
How much rain will fall before the sun
The truth hurts like a knife
People are looking for light
The clouds won't let them see
Thousands of fields without trees

No more words to say
How the world could change
If you want to cry
Iâ'll be on your side

Iâ've got two new hands to touch the world
There is a silence over every ear
The sea is like a shadow
People are looking for light
The clouds won't let them see
Thousands of fields without trees

No more words to say
How the world could change
If you want to try
Iâ'll be on your side
