[Illogic]

I stand in the belly of oblivion seeing light strobe past me, at uncomparable speeds of rushing wind
I take a step towards the laboreth of life where it's pearly gates of white perplex me I enter its doors of glittering ivory and was met by streets of gleaming gold that seem to lead into infinity curious I took the road to an unknown destination endured my down down the street of precious metal with thoughts of confusion racing though my metnal nevertheless I continued the journey looking around I noticed crowds of clouds floating through this abyss of beauty as if it were home alone I proceed to watch for any signs of life any signs that might give me a sense of my surroundings then off in the distance I notice a glowing white figure it would appear to be a platinum fountain gathering drink to her lips as I pulled closer to this vision a set of wings grabbed my attention to get closer, I had to, to check if this being was reality the nearer I got, the realer she became with flowing curly hair of a brownish brunette and I take it she felt my presence as she turned my direction aqua green eyes locked to mine as the sites of a crossbow with its target centuries of thoughts, epics of words were exchanged in this blare stare is all that came to mind at a loss of speech I, was standing in amazement now is it possible that she, is it possible that we is it possible that me, her, us, is inevitable confrontation amazing, incredible, fabolous though I'm human, her angelic (if it wasn't love I wouldn't of felt it) but its definitely love at second glance but first sight definitely love at second glance but first sight

definitely love at first sight her left appendix was extended to grace my face with the presence of her skin the texture of her touch though of silk spun in the depths of Asia her lips plump and sweet this being completely beautiful from the root of her hair to the soul of her pedicure still my muscles were stagnant(inactive) I still hadn't moved from the initial eyes locking so I appeared passive shocking fact of how attractive being of the next world to often I had to press girls to give me second look but now I'm taken it was as if she saw into my soul and I, her's its complexity had me perturbed(disturbed) that society's acceptance of her and I but it seemed God was okay with it, he let our paths cross still at a loss of words I stretched my arms just to touch her robe to my knees I tossed, my body to worship this goddess of my resurrection she had to be the closest thing to next to God himself love like this never experienced before or ever will be again she's my friend that shield me from the pain and anguish of living never exchanged the word, our thoughts were from the "hello"'s to the "how are you"'s to the "I love you"'s she grabbed my hands, led me to the land of milk and honey life and prosperity, my wife she was preparing to be we sat in a garden of roses and other, exotic flowers still just exchanging thoughts as butterfly's landed on the tips of our noses we held hands, her beauty was overwhelming I couldn't stand to stare so I close my elids to rest of it still she was there, I felt her genital touch to the chest this heavenly voice spoke those three words, my heart began to race faster felt the touch of those lips on my cheek, open my eyes to complete darkness went for the lightswitch for illumination wondering what type of twist or turn took my situation to my surprise I was met by those eyes and that hair that stare, no wings but it wasn't a dream, it was you my love my earth angel, the real thing the real thing

I know now that she, I know now that we, me, her, us, in inevitable confrontation amazing, incredible, fabulous though I'm human, her angelic
if it wasn't love I wouldn't of felt it but its definiety love at second glance but first sight definiety love at second glance but first sight definiety love at second glance but first sight definiety love at first sight
