lift your head up out of your hands love
i can't take you anywhere sometimes you give me all you've got to give me and sometimes you act like you don't care

don't i know
the days are only
what we make them
don't i know
the nights go only
where we take them

you carry all my light about you drawing deeply in the air a choice, a fight, a call, a whisper you always let me know you're there

don't i know
the days are only
what we make them
don't i know
the nights go only

an arrow pointed deep and directly scatters on the silver soul as if i never even noticed i could be almost all the way home

the days are only
what we make them
the nights go only

the days are only
the nights go only
where we take them
