Don't wake the kids for tea
Be thankful their paws are clean
We've just sold our house for pennies
They'll be worried, just let them sleep

We will go to a town covered in snow
And settle down in a new home

Stand straight and tall
This is a misery that nobody wants
We're in control of this
Don't fear the fall
We've offered something that nobody wants
We're in control of this

Grab your T.V, books, and speaker set
You don't want to leave them behind
Letters, journals, pictures and thermals too

Remember who you are
Remember who you are
Remember who you are

Care for the ones you need
And maybe their hearts will grow

Stand straight and tall
This is a misery that nobody wants
We're in control of this
Don't fear the fall
We've offered something that nobody wants
We're in control of this
