

Sirima

"Sometimes Love Isn't Enough"

Visit "Sometimes Love Isn't Enough" on MotoLyrics.com

If I had the millions you say you need to live
If I had millions to give
I would give you everything till I had nothing left
But why can't my love be enough
If I knew the very words to soothe your troubled mind
If I had that peace you search so hard to find
I would calm your troubled seas till all my strength ran dry
But why can't my love be enough

Why does a man never see the good things that he has Why does he always want more?
If he could only see the love a heart is made up of
He wouldn't need those millions at all!

You asked me to give you all my time so I gave it all to you
Every smile and every tear I cried was for you
But after taking all I gave and taking even more
You still said my love was not enough

Someone sang a song that said "all you need is love"
But in this case he must have got it wrong
After taking all I gave and taking even more
You still said my love was not enough

... It's so hard to face the truth
And finally realise sometimes love isn't enough
No sometimes love just isn't enough!

Visit Sirima page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.