We're finally alone at last.
Oh how I've waited for this day to come.
There's just something about you that rubs me wrong.
You're not worth my attention!
I built this with my own two hands.
If you could spare me the time,
stop using me as your next misconception.

I don't believe that everything you've known about me
is gone forever
And I won't forget the days that we spent. Forever, it
haunts me.
I don't believe that everything you've known about me
is gone forever
And I won't forget the days that we spent. Forever, it
haunts me.

It won't be long before you meet your end.
You're nothing more than a passing trend,
So keep those cameras rolling,
You think I wouldn't remember?
You thought that I would lose faith in myself.
You can spare me the lies.
You don't believe in me.

Your life's a contradiction.

I don't believe that everything you've known about me
is gone forever
And I won't forget the days that we spent. Forever, it
haunts me.
I don't believe that everything you've known about me
is gone forever
And I won't forget the days that we spent. Forever, it
haunts me.

We set the fire, around your lies.
Here's to the man of the hour,
we'll cast all problems aside,
cheers to your future, may they bury you alive!

Move!

I don't believe that everything you've known about me
is gone forever
And I won't forget the days that we spent. Forever, it
haunts me.
I don't believe that everything you've known about me
is gone forever
And I won't forget the days that we spent. Forever, it haunts me.
