One nation under God, and in Him we trust,
Well I'll believe it when I see it but I won't get my hopes up.
This melting pot of age, denomination, and race
Has boiled over with prejudice, disgraced and shame faced.
Open your eyes people, things are gettin' sick.
Murder is legal, and the killers get rich.
Call this the land of the free and the home of the brave,
Well I see people in chains and they're too blind to see that they're slaves.
I won't call this home.
Hate, it's the national pastime. Too late, it sung it's song for the last time.
I'm building my stronghold on the Rock of Ages,
Not on the sands of sin because I know it's wages are death,
But God's love has given the breath of new life. So don't forget.
Watch TV and see the world's definition of love, Immorality glorified far above the importance of where man stands with God,
And I think it's got to stop!
I won't call this home.
Every time I turn my head, this place, it's in my face. So blasphemous.
Screaming it's obscenities, it's abominations bleed my eyes. Disease.
These wicked flames, that flicker pain, try night and day to consume me.
The smell of death on everything I touch, cost of acceptance far too much.
But not for long, I'm going home, my savior's coming
for me.
I've got to hold my head up high, try not to lose my focus.
I've got to stand my ground, while this world rips at my flesh.
But not for long, I'm going home, my savior's coming
for me.
This nation we witness, the child of progress,
The land of opportunity, the land of success,

Is just a caldron of souls that's about overfilled,
An empire the devil has worked so hard to build.
So for as long as I'm here, for the rest of my days,
I won't conform to this world, I won't adopt it's ways.
Christ's kingdom is coming and without Him it's hopeless,
So until that day you can consider me homeless.
Homeless - For Now - Always - Homeward Bound!
Homeless - For Now - Always - Homeward Bound!
Homeless - For Now - Always - Homeward Bound!
Homeless - For Now - I Won't - Call This Place Home!
