

Skar

"A Member of the Forgotten Caste Speaks"

Visit "A Member of the Forgotten Caste Speaks" on MotoLyrics.com

I reached my breaking point and never looked back
Now I'm struggling to keep myself in tact
We coexisted like insects and cared not for the future
And now we are the ones that time forgot
I lied to get my way out from here
I stole to keep my habits unhealthy
We were all oblivious to the inevitable
When it came some would never return

The sun never rose on a dead May in mourning
And the ones who couldn't survive faded away
Into the bleak and bitter obscurity
We so desperately feared in past days
I persevered with the cut and run
I saw through to my undying ambition
Where have the rest all vanished to
And why did they fall to disgrace so fast

Do you believe in me
Because I bleed for you
Do you still breathe or see
Or have your fears come true
It's so sad to say you're probably gone
It's so sad to see the spectre you've become

The shadows of the caste that's forgotten
Roam these potters fields now blind and ruined
I couldn't believe what had become of myself
You couldn't believe and look what it's done to you

Do you believe in me
Because I bleed for you
Are you yet strong or sane
Or has your course run through
It's so sad to predict your untimely demise
Your memories have become all that's left for you

Visit Skar page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

