I must be running low on time
I thought I had it all
I'm waiting on the top now
I'm waiting for the eminent fall
I never could remember
Just why I began at all
I never could remember
But I know I've lost it all

Back on the outside
The end of the line
A little out of time
Lost beyond all hope
I'm fading and I choke
A little dead and forgotten
A little turned to stone

A faded voice of reason has Grown silent in due time
I thought of it as possible
But never in the prime
You never could remember
Just why I cared at all
I was once on top
But now I'm bleeding from the fall

Out on the outside
The end of the line
A little out of time
Lost beyond all hope
I'm fading and I choke
A little dead and forgotten
A little turned to stone

I never could forget
I never could believe
I never could accept the fate
I never could receive
I never knew the truth
I never was free

I never was myself
I never was me
