Hey what's the name of that place on the water
That you took me to the one with the green and white striped umbrellas
And the scenic view
I want to go there and understand you Hey i just want to get tossed by the waves and get lost in the sight of You
There honestly isn't a single thing i'd rather do A contrast between comfort and fear from a friend that's a strange thing to feel But i'll sail it with You
We could sit on the jetty and see the sunrise if You wanted to
I'm breathless and overtaken by Your love
We could watch the stars
How does that make You feel to watch something You made turn out so beautiful Then You say "i feel the same way when i look at you"
Far removed leaving in the summertime likewise
But not like mine i want to touch You
But i want to feel You reaching for me more
My heart says it needs You
