Well all my friends are getting married
Yes they're all growin' old
They're all staying home on weekends
They're all doin' what they're told

Well I looked into the crowd the other night
And I saw an old familiar face
He said "How are you doin' Shirl my boy?"
He said " Tell me, are you playin' the same old place?"
I asked him all about himself
And he said that he was married with a kid
Showed me a picture of his wife
And we talked about all those things we did

Well all my friends are getting married
Yes they're all growin' old
They're all staying home on weekends
They're all doin' what they're told

Well sometimes I feel like I'm left behind
And sometimes I feel like I've just left school
Wonder if I'll ever grow up
Maybe I'm the only fool

Well all my friends are getting married
Yes they're all growin' old
They're all staying home on weekends
They're all doin' what they're told

But I'm all caught up with this magic Yes I'm all caught up with this fun
I'm all caught up with this music
Well maybe I'll never have a son
Well maybe I'll never have a son

Well all my friends are getting married (Oh, the time has come)
Yes they're all growin' old (Yes, they're all growin' old) They're all staying home on weekends (I just want to be here, on my own) They're all doin' what they're told (Oh yes, they're growin' old)

They're all doin' what they're told (Yes they won't, settle down)

They're all doin' what they're told (But I don't wanna be, pushed around)
