Lead voc: Choir:

So maybe you're standing
In some foreign town
You've walked for miles
Till the heat slows you down
And your jeans and your curls
Are bleached
And split
And your money and your anger
Are all used up
Maybe I'm sorry
About the light in this place
Makes my heart seem cold
As the words on these pages
Maybe I'm reminded
By a shop window displays or a decoration
Like some church candle
That might just burn
Might just burn
'Cause we're dancing under chandeliers
And I'm telling you
Caught in the headlights
And I'm yelling it at you
Why is it girl
When the world is lit by lightning
That I keep telling you
That I love you
So you're ten miles out
Of this city at night
When do coloured lights
Become paint and glass and dust
And how I wonder
What light to trust
The light of the distance
Or the light might just burn
Might just burn
'Cause we're dancing under chandeliers
And I'm telling you
Caught in the headlights
And I'm yelling it at you
Why is it girl
When the world is lit by lightning

That I keep telling you
I keep telling you
I keep telling you
We're dancing under chandeliers
And I'm telling you
We're caught in the headlights
And I'm yelling it at you

Why is it girl
When the world is lit by lightning
Seraphim and Cherubim
Skies full of gold dust
Moonshine and starlight
Pockets full of rainbows
Windows and mirrored balls
Porcelain and silverlake
Dance hall neons flash and swing
Blow out your candles
It will call you

Angel

Angel

Angel

Angel

Angel

When the world knows your name
We're dancing under chandeliers
And I'm telling you
And I'm yelling it at you

Why is it girl

When the world is lit by lightning

That I keep telling you

That I love you

We're dancing under chandeliers

And I'm telling you

Caught in the headlights

And I'm yelling it at you

Why is it girl

When the world is lit by lightning

That I keep telling you

That I love you

I love you

I love you

When the world

When the world

When the world knows your name

When the world

When the world

When the world knows your name

When the world knows your name

When the world knows your name

When the world knows your name
We're dancing under chandeliers
And I'm telling you
And I'm yelling it at you
Why is it girl
That I keep telling you
That I love you
